Presentations and Workshops

Influence Without Authority

Influencing change in areas we don't manage is a core capability of successful leaders in all organizations. The topic focuses on the constellation of skills and inspires audiences to focus on the methods for driving success both personally and professionally.

The Power of Coaching in Business

Great Coaching has a long-established link to excellence in sports and is now being recognized as a critical link to excellence in a profession setting. This session describes how a planned approach to Coaching in a Professional context delivers improved communication, focus, accountability and levels of individual contribution previously thought unattainable.
